B. CCPA RIGHT TO ACCESS, CORRECT, OR DELETE PERSONAL INFORMATION

If you are a California resident, California law also may permit you to request that we:

- Provide access to and/or a copy of certain information we have about you;
- Delete certain information we have about you;
- Correct certain personal information we have about you; or
- Provide you the categories of personal information we have collected or disclosed about you in the last 12 months; the categories of sources of such information; the business or commercial purpose for collecting or selling your personal information; the categories of third parties with whom we shared personal information; and more specific detail about what categories of information were “sold,” “shared,” or disclosed to particular categories of third parties, similar to the detail above this Section of the Privacy Statement.

Certain information is exempt from such requests under California law. For example, we need certain information to provide our services to you, so we may reject a deletion request for that information while providing services to you.

Additionally, where Leaseweb holds information as a service provider to one of its customers, it may reject your request and direct you to submit requests to exercise the rights in these sections to the appropriate Leaseweb customer.

To request to exercise any of these rights and receive the fastest response, please email us as described at the end of this Privacy Statement. We will take steps to verify your identity to our satisfaction before responding to your request, which may include, depending on the type of request you are making, the sensitivity of any data you are requesting, and the nature of your relationship with us: verifying your name, asking you to click on a link that we send to your email address, requesting that you login to an account you maintain with us, or requesting that you provide us with information about our relationship that only you are likely to have.

C. REQUESTS MADE BY AGENTS

For security and legal reasons, we do not accept personal information requests that require us to use a third-party service (such as one operated by an agent) to view or respond to the requests. If you are an agent making a request on behalf of a consumer, we reserve the right to take steps to verify that you are authorized to make that request, which may include requiring you to provide us with written proof such as a notarized authentication letter or a power of attorney. We also may require the consumer to verify their identity directly with us. Because opt-out requests for sales made through cookies and related technology must be performed from each browser that is used to access our Services, it is easiest for the consumer to perform such opt-outs themselves. However, if a consumer wishes for an agent to perform browser-based requests on their behalf, the consumer may arrange for the agent to use the consumer’s browser to make such requests. We are not responsible for the security risks of this or any other arrangements that a consumer may have with an agent. For clarity, this is not permission for any user to share their login credentials with an agent or any third party. Such sharing is prohibited and is not required for an agent to make requests under this Privacy Statement.

D. NONDISCRIMINATION

You also have a right not to receive “discriminatory treatment” (within the meaning of the CCPA) for the exercise of the privacy rights conferred by the CCPA.
